About the Venue: Gurugram, formerly Gurgaon, is a district headquarters in Haryana and a satellite city of New Delhi, the national capital situated just southwest of it. The town has historical and mythological significance rooted in Indian folklore and legends. The name "Gurugram" signifies the village where the guru lived and imparted knowledge to Pandava and Kaurava princes in the ancient Indian epic, the Mahabharata. The Gurugram is an international IT hub often referred to as the "Millennium City." It has emerged as a prominent example of urban transformation and integration into the global economy. Despite its reputation as a modern business hub, it also boasts several spiritual, religious, and historical landmarks that hold significance for visitors viz. Sheetla Mata Mandir Kadipur Shiv Mandir, Inchchapuri Shiv Mandir, Sultanpur Bird Sanctuary, Pataudi Palace, Farrukhnagar Fort, Damdama Lake, Brahm Kumari's Spiritual Centre, Sai Ka Angan, ISKCON Temple, Aravalli Biodiversity Park, etc.

About the Host Institute: SIASTE was established by Govt. of Haryana at Jhajjar in 2013 as a first-of-its-kind initiative by any of the state governments to run an integrated teacher education program on the pattern of RIEs (NCERT). The SIASTE Gurugram was opened in 2021 in the Teacher Education Cluster of SCERT Haryana & DIET Gurugram to prepare teachers equipped with 21st century skills for bringing phenomenal change in the quality of school education. Presently, the institute is running four year integrated teacher education programme affiliated with Gurugram University, Gurugram. The institute has a strong acumen for academics and research and publishes its bi-annual journal J-SIASTE.

About the Conference: NCT³-2024 is an initiative of SIASTE Haryana to provide a platform to the academicians and researchers in the regime of teacher education, pedagogy, and school-level best practices for sharing their ideas, innovations, and cutting-edge research in a mutually benefitting way. The convening of the conference will help the participants in building a strong network of researchers, and brainstorming sessions will be able to decide the directions of teachers' education and reproducible best practices in school and classroom, especially in the post-NEP-2020 era.

Conference Scope

The scopes of the conference are not limited to but broadly in the following areas of research:

- Teacher Education
- School Education
- Vocational Education
- Pedagogy, Andragogy and Heutagogy
- STEAM Education
- Role of Teachers in Global Perspectives
- Regulations of School and Teacher Education
- Education in the Age of AI
- 21st Century Skills in Education
- NEP-2020 and its Implications
